

Quels enfants
laisserons-nous à la planète ?

What children will we leave to the planet?

A film by Anne Barth
Producer Michel Valentin

65 min. + bonus and English subtitles version

With Isabelle PELOUX and the children of the COLIBRI School, with the participation of Charles CAOINETTE and Pierre DEMERS (both from Quebec) as well as Pierre RABHI and Philippe MEIRIEU (both from France)

The question: What children will we leave to the planet? is central to the practice of Isabelle Peloux, a teacher at the Colibri elementary school in Drôme, France. Working intensively with the school for a year, Franco-Quebec director Anne Barth sensitively captured the interactions between Isabelle, the teachers-in-training and the students. Peace education, philosophical debates, relational ecology and the environment are just some of the topics covered in the film: captivating for young and old!

This film takes us into the very heart of education, our own and that of future generations... An education focussed on the need to learn to work together, on the need to educate in order to raise awareness.

Living in peace, being responsible and accountable, is a way of life that can be learned...
